

Unit 1: 3-D Art

Welcome to the Museum of Illusions!

Part 1: The Entrance Hall

Jin, Sho, and Hina are going to a museum today.

But wait... is everyone here?

I'm sorry I'm late.

Don't worry. We've just arrived, too. But Hina hasn't come yet.

Really? Is she late, too? I'll call her. Hi, Hina. Where are you now?

Oh, I'm sorry. I got here early and I'm in the entrance now. I've already bought the tickets for all of us.

Question 1:
Has Hina come yet?

Answer 1:

Yes, she has. (She is in the entrance hall.)

Key Sentence:

I've already bought the tickets.

Pair Activity:

Ask your partner!
Have you already eaten
breakfast?
Have you finished your
homework yet?

Part 2: Let's Look Inside!

The friends enter the museum.

They find a strange mirror and take some funny photos...

Panel 1: Mirror Art

Jin, have you seen the mirror art yet?

No, I haven't.

Kiri

Look. This is a mirror, but I'm not reflected in it. Isn't it interesting?

Panel 2: Funny Photo

Jin

Sho

Wow. Hina looks much taller than you! I haven't seen it yet, so I should go and see it!

Panel 3: 3-D Art

Hina

Here's another interesting photo. Jin's hand is being eaten! That looks so painful, right?

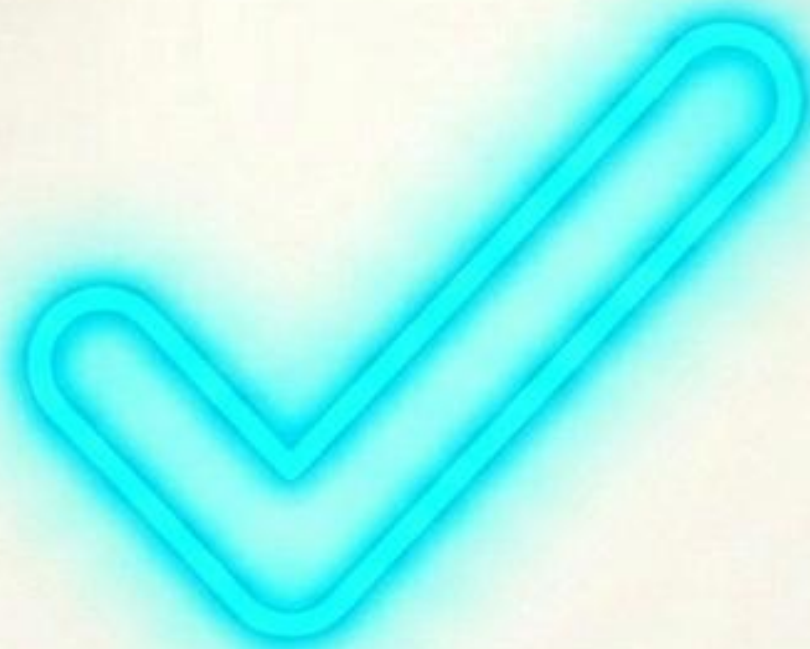

Sho

Jin, you're a good actor. How fun! I've become crazy about 3-D art.

Question 2:
Has Jin seen the mirror art yet?

Answer 2:
No, he hasn't.

Key Sentence:
Have you seen the
mirror art yet?

Pair Activity:
Make a question and ask
your partner!

Have you [Verb] yet?
(Examples: read the book, cleaned your room, played the game)

Have you seen the mirror art yet?

Part 3: Asking the Teacher

Sho meets his teacher,
Ms. Hall.

Does she know about 3-D art?
Let's find out!

I went to the 3-D Art Museum with my friends today. Have you ever seen 3-D art?

3-D art? What's that? I've never heard of it.

Really? Please take a look.

Ah, I've seen these kinds of pictures. They're called trompe l'oeil in French. It means tricking the eye.

How do you say it in English?

I think we say optical illusion in English. There are various kinds of optical illusions. 3-D art must be one of them.

Question 3:
Has Ms. Hall ever heard of 3-D art?

Answer 3:
No, she has never heard of it.

Key Sentence:

Have you ever seen 3-D art?

Pair Activity:

- Ask your partner about their experiences!
- Have you ever visited a museum?
- Have you ever eaten [Food]?

Read & Think: A Journey Through Time

Optical illusions have a long history.
Let's travel back in time to see how artists tricked the eye!

- 1 Optical illusions have a long history. In the 16th century, an Italian artist, Arcimboldo, created this type of art. One of his works looks like a portrait of a young lady from a distance. However, when you look closely, you will find that it is composed of many kinds of plants.

- 2 He also created other paintings for entertainment. This painting looks like some vegetables in a bowl. However, when it is turned upside down, a human face will appear.

- 3 In the 17th century, different types of optical illusions were created. This photo shows the ceiling of a church in Italy. It looks like a dome, but actually, it is not. An Italian artist, Pozzo, painted it on the flat ceiling.

- 4 Another type of optical illusion appeared in the 19th century. This picture was painted by a Spanish artist, Borell. It looks three-dimensional. The boy in this picture is about to come out of the picture frame.

- 5 A famous Dutch artist, Escher, created many unique works in the 20th century. Have you ever seen this famous print? Which point does the water start to flow from? Is this structure possible? Actually, it is impossible, but you are deceived by Escher's optical illusion technique.

- 6 In the late 20th century, modern Japanese 3-D art, "Trick Art", was created by Kenju Kazumune. To enjoy Trick Art, first, choose an artwork and strike your best pose. Then, ask someone to take a picture of you. Now, you're part of the artwork!

Century	Artist	Country	The Trick
16th	Arcimboldo	Italy 	Plants/Vegetables look like faces
17th	Pozzo	Italy 	Flat ceiling looks like a dome
19th	Borell	Spain 	Boy coming out of the frame
20th	Escher	Netherlands 	Impossible water structure
Late 20th	Kazumune	Japan 	'Trick Art' you can pose with
